HUMAN RESOURCE POLICY

INTRODUCTION

Executive Council recognizes the importance of defining and regularly reviewing Human Resource Policy (“HR Policy”). Executive Council has the responsibility and authority for developing, approving and amending HR Policy under the Financial Administration Act. The Executive Director is responsible for administration of HR Policy, including insuring that all employees have a copy and that they understand its contents.

Executive Council believes that HR policy should reflect:

- good faith and transparency in the defining and administration of terms and conditions of employment;
- fair management practices and accountability;
- the practices and policies of similar external organizations;
- the culture of the HUU-ay-aht First Nations;
- the provisions of the Canada Labour Code and the Canadian Human Rights Act, and their regulations; and
- consistent, fair and effective decision making.

In the event of a conflict between the HR Policy and the Huu-ay-aht Constitution or a Huu-ay-aht Act, the Huu-ay-aht Constitution or the Huu-ay-aht Act takes precedence. If there is a conflict between the HR Policy and the Canada Labour Code, the Code takes precedence.

Employees are encouraged to submit any suggestions for improvement to the HR Policy to the Executive Director.

Discipline, Suspension and Dismissal	Effective Date:
	Revision Date:

GENERAL POLICIES

- ◆ For the purpose of this Policy, discipline shall be generally defined as an orderly and progressive process for the purpose of improving an employee's performance or conduct, through corrective or punitive action. In cases of very serious misconduct, one or more steps in the process may be skipped by the employer.
- ◆ Discipline shall be administered for "just cause".
- ◆ The act or conduct giving rise to the need for discipline may occur during or outside of the scheduled workday, normally while the employee is working, or engaged in a work-related activity. For greater clarity, releasing confidential information is considered a work-related activity, even if done during non-working hours. The level and nature of the disciplinary action will depend on the seriousness of the misconduct.

SPECIFIC POLICIES

Corrective Counselling

1. Prior to taking disciplinary action, the employee's immediate supervisor shall make reasonable efforts to counsel the employee by explaining the nature and impact of the employee's questionable conduct and suggesting corrective measures.
2. Where the employee's supervisor or manager receives information suggesting that an employee has engaged in conduct deserving of discipline or has observed such conduct themselves, no discipline will be implemented until the employee has been given an opportunity to explain the conduct in question. If the employee's supervisor or manager finds the explanation to be unsatisfactory, the employee will be subject to discipline.

The verbal warning shall be noted in the employee’s Personnel File, with the details of the warning recorded. Every warning, whether verbal or in writing, shall consist of the following:
 - a. An explanation of the poor performance or misconduct that has resulted in a warning being given;
 - b. An explanation of what the employee must do to correct their performance or misconduct so that the employee understands the standard they must meet going forward; and
 - c. A caution that if the required standard is not met or misconduct is repeated, the employee will be subject to further discipline, up to and including termination of employment with cause.

4. Written Warning(s) – Where a verbal warning does not result in the required level of performance or conduct, the employee’s immediate supervisor, in consultation with the Director or the Executive Director, where applicable shall issue a written warning.

Where poor performance or questionable conduct continues, one further written warning shall be provided by the Director upon consultation with the Executive Director.

An employee may apply to the Executive Director for the removal of a verbal or written warning from the employee’s personnel file 12 months after the date the warning was issued, if no further discipline has been issued since then. If the Executive Director feels that the employee’s performance or conduct has improved to a satisfactory level, the warning shall be removed from the personnel file.
