Note to Reader

The Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act provides Hui-ay-aht citizens and members of the public with access to information held by Hui-ay-aht bodies. In addition, the Act provides for protection of a person's privacy.

Hui-ay-aht public records are designated each year by Executive Council from a directory of records provided by Hui-ay-aht bodies. Hui-ay-aht public records are official records that must be made available to the public by the Law Clerk in the Registry of Laws and Official Records. The Act sets out the criteria for selecting Hui-ay-aht public records as well as the exemptions from disclosing records.

Hui-ay-aht bodies are required to ensure their records are accurate and complete if they are used to provide a benefit or service to a Hui-ay-aht citizen. Hui-ay-aht citizens may get a copy of records about themselves and may apply to correct the records.

The privacy of Hui-ay-aht citizens is protected under the Act by requiring a Hui-ay-aht body collecting information to collect the information directly from the person the information is about unless certain restricted circumstances exist such as the information is required for law enforcement.

The Act sets out how Hui-ay-aht records must be managed requiring, for example, that records held by Hui-ay-aht bodies must be kept for at least 5 years.

In 2014, the Hui-ay-aht Tribunal must appoint an Independent Review Commissioner to review the Act and make recommendations to achieve the Act's purpose of ensuring Hui-ay-aht bodies are open, accountable and transparent and the personal privacy of individuals is protected.

The Legislature enacts as follows:
