Note to Reader

The Election Act sets out the process for electing the Chief Councillor and elected Councillors on the Huu-ay-aht Council. Beginning in 2011, general elections are held on the third Saturday in June every 4 years.

Huu-ay-aht citizens who are at least 18 may vote, nominate candidates or, if qualified, run as candidates. A candidate may run for both Chief Councillor and Councillor in an election but may only hold one position.

Executive Council appoints the Election Commissioner, who is not a Huu-ay-aht citizen, to conduct the election. The commissioner appoints election officials, prepares voters lists, receives nominations, mails election information to voters, oversees the campaign period, among many other election tasks. An election timetable provided in this Act sets out the timelines for the tasks in an election.

Voting may be by mail-in ballot, or a ballot marked on voting day in Anacla or Port Alberni. Everyone involved in an election must maintain the secrecy of the ballot. Interfering in the election, bribing or intimidating voters, breaching the campaign code of conduct, and other election offences result in penalties under this Act.

Eligible voters have a responsibility to vote. Those who fail to vote in an election may be disqualified for specified Huu-ay-aht government programs, services or benefits.

Tie votes result in ballot recounts or a run-off vote to determine the successful candidate. The Huu-ay-aht Tribunal may hear an application to disqualify a candidate or to declare an election invalid.

The Legislature enacts as follows:
