SPECIAL WEATHER STATEMENT FROM ENVIROMENT CANADA

Current details:

Prolonged heavy rain this weekend, with strong winds on Saturday.

Where: Metro Vancouver, Fraser Valley, Howe Sound, Whistler, Sunshine Coast, and Vancouver Island, except Victoria and the Southern Gulf Islands.

When: Friday afternoon through Sunday morning.

Hazards:

- Water pooling on the roads
- Swollen rivers and creeks
- Increased risk of washouts, rockfall, and landslides
- Power outages possible from tree damage due to winds

Remarks:

A strong fall storm system will direct an atmospheric river towards the South Coast, bringing heavy rain to the region. Rain is expected to begin early in the day on Friday and continue into Sunday morning. The rain will ease by Sunday afternoon.

Rainfall totals are forecast to reach 40 to 70 mm in general, with the lower amounts expected south of the Fraser River and potentially exceeding 100 mm over the coastal mountains.

Strong southeast wind gusts up to 80 km/h will also impact areas of eastern Vancouver Island, Sunshine Coast and Metro Vancouver nearest the water on Friday afternoon into Friday overnight. Winds are expected to ease during the day Saturday.

Ahead of the storm, ensure that drains are clear of leaves and debris and secure loose objects.

Please continue to monitor alerts and forecasts issued by Environment Canada. To report severe weather, send an email to BCstorm@ec.gc.ca or tweet reports using #BCStorm.
