- (a) upon confirmation that the person is charged with a prescribed offence, and
 - (b) upon notice that the Ethics Commissioner has made a preliminary finding that the person has engaged in excludable conduct.
- (2) The Executive Director must issue a final exclusion order in the prescribed form in respect of any member of the Huu-ay-aht community upon confirmation that the person
- (a) has been convicted of an excludable offence in the past five (5) years, or
 - (b) has been finally determined by the Ethics Commissioner to have engaged in excludable conduct.

Confirmation of conviction

- 4 If the Executive Director receives credible information that a member of the Huu-ay-aht community has been charged with or convicted of an excludable offence, the Executive Director must seek confirmation of the charge or conviction in the manner they deem appropriate, which may include
- (a) obtaining court records, or
 - (b) issuing and serving an information order.

Criminal history information order

- (1) The Executive Director may issue an information order in the prescribed form for the purpose of confirming credible information that a member of the Huu-ay-aht community has been charged with or convicted of an excludable offence.
 - (2) An information order must
 - (a) name the person the Executive Director has reason to believe has been charged with or convicted of, as the case may be, a prescribed offence,
 - (b) set out the nature of the prescribed offence giving rise to the order,
 - (c) require the named person to provide to the Executive Director, within seven (7) days of service:

 - (4) Upon issuance of an information order, the Law Clerk must, as soon as practicable, place the order in the registry.
 - (5) If a person upon whom an information order is served fails to provide the required documentation within 10 working days of service, the Executive Director will consider the person to have been charged with or convicted of, as the case may be, the excludable offence set out in the information order.

Initiating an investigation into excludable conduct

- 5.1
- (1) If the Ethics Commissioner receives credible information that a member of the Huu-ay-aht community has engaged in excludable conduct that, in the view of the Ethics Commissioner, is indicative of a potential risk to the Huu-ay-aht community and that person is not charged with a prescribed offence with respect to substantially the same conduct, the Ethics Commissioner must commence an investigation.
 - (2) Where the Ethics Commissioner has been asked in writing to consider commencing an investigation under subsection (1) and determines not to do so, they must provide written reasons for their decision to the Law Clerk and the person making the request.
 - (3) Upon receipt of written reasons under subsection (2), the Law Clerk must, as soon as practicable, place the order in the registry.
 - (4) The Ethics Commissioner must promptly give notice to the ḥawiiḥ Council, Executive Council, and Executive Director upon commencing an investigation under subsection (1).

Conduct of investigation

- 5.2
- (1) In conducting an investigation under this Part, the Ethics Commissioner has the authority to collect, receive, and assess evidence for the purpose of determining whether a person has engaged in excludable conduct.
 - (2) The Ethics Commissioner must ensure that the subject of the investigation is afforded the opportunity to know and meet the case against them and to provide a meaningful response.
 - (3) In conducting an investigation, the Ethics Commissioner may:
 - (a) determine the processes by which they will receive information, which may include conducting interviews and receiving written submissions and documents;
 - (b) meet with and interview any person that the Ethics Commissioner believes may have information that is relevant to the investigation and necessary in order to make findings of fact;
 - (c) receive and accept such evidence as the Ethics Commissioner considers proper; and
 - (d) require the Executive Director to produce any documents in the possession or control of the Huv-ay-aht government that the Ethics Commissioner considers may be relevant to the investigation.
 - (4) The Ethics Commissioner will not make findings that a subject has engaged in excludable conduct unless satisfied, on the whole of the evidence, that on a balance of probabilities those findings are established by clear, convincing, and cogent evidence.
 - (5) The subject of an investigation may decline to participate in an investigation and request in writing that their participation in the investigation be delayed until such time as the subject is willing to participate.
 - (6) If the subject of an investigation has declined to participate under subsection (5), the Ethics Commissioner will complete as much of the investigation as practicable without the participation of the subject of the investigation.

Investigation – vulnerable witnesses

- 5.3
- (1) If the Ethics Commissioner determines that a person is a vulnerable witness, the Ethics Commissioner will take reasonable steps to ensure that the witness is able to provide full, candid, and reliable evidence in a manner that minimizes the risk of harm including trauma, intimidation, or retribution.
 - (2) Without limiting the generality of subsection (1), the Ethics Commissioner may
 - (a) receive testimony from a vulnerable witness in private or in a location where they feel safe,
 - (b) permit a vulnerable witness to provide information through written, recorded, or remote means,

- (c) receive information from a vulnerable witness in confidence.
- (3) Where disclosure of all or part of their evidence would create a real and substantial risk of harm to a vulnerable witness, or would undermine the purposes of this Act, including by deterring vulnerable persons from coming forward, the Ethics Commissioner may withhold or redact such information.
- (4) Where evidence is withheld or redacted under subsection (3), the Ethics Commissioner will provide a written summary of the withheld information to the subject of the investigation that
 - (a) conveys the substance of the allegations or facts relied upon, and
 - (b) excludes those details that are in the view of the Ethics Commissioner reasonably necessary to protect the vulnerable witness from harm.
- (5) Where evidence is received in confidence from a vulnerable witness, the Ethics Commissioner may only rely on such evidence in circumstances where the subject of the investigation has been provided with sufficient disclosure of the substance of that evidence to allow them to know the case against them and to respond meaningfully.

Investigation – parallel processes

- 5.4
- (1) Where the Ethics Commissioner has commenced an investigation under section 5.1 (1) and subsequently becomes aware that the subject of the investigation is charged with a prescribed offence with respect to substantially the same conduct as gave rise to the investigation, the Ethics Commissioner will consider whether to delay the completion of the investigation until the criminal process has come to an end.
 - (2) In determining whether and at what point to delay the completion of the investigation under subsection (1), the Ethics Commissioner will consider
 - (a) the seriousness of the excludable conduct under investigation,
 - (b) the potential risk to community safety posed by the subject of the investigation,
 - (c) what steps are appropriate in the totality of the circumstances to preserve potentially relevant evidence.
 - (3) Where the Ethics Commissioner is investigating excludable conduct and a conviction occurs with respect to substantially the same conduct, the Ethics Commissioner will give notice to the Executive Director and cease the investigation.

When charges not substantiated

- 5.5
- (1) In this section “no longer charged” refers to circumstances where charges are withdrawn or dismissed, there is a prosecutorial or judicial stay of proceedings, or the person has been acquitted of the charges.
 - (2) In circumstances where an excluded person is no longer charged with a prescribed offence, the Ethics Commissioner must determine in accordance with this section whether to commence or continue an investigation into any excludable conduct with respect to substantially the same conduct that gave rise to the charges.

- (3) An excluded person who is subject to an interim exclusion order and who is no longer charged with any prescribed offence giving rise to the exclusion order may notify the Ethics Commissioner in writing of the change in circumstances.
- (4) Upon receipt of a notification under subsection (3), the Ethics Commissioner will give public notice that an interim exclusion order may be subject to cancellation.
- (5) A notice under subsection (4) must include
 - (a) the name of the excluded person,
 - (b) the details of the prescribed offence and excludable conduct,
 - (c) the date and manner by which interested parties may provide submissions to the Ethics Commissioner.
- (6) The Ethics Commissioner will give the excluded person an opportunity to respond to any matters under consideration by the Ethics Commissioner in determining whether to commence or continue an investigation.
- (7) In determining whether it is in the best interests of the Huu-ay-aht to commence or continue an investigation under this section, the Ethics Commissioner will consider:
 - (a) the seriousness of the excludable conduct under investigation,
 - (b) the time elapsed since the excludable conduct is alleged to have taken place,
 - (c) any submissions of the excluded person and other interested parties,
 - (d) in an investigation that has been delayed, the nature and strength of any evidence received to date.

 - (c) the evidentiary basis for the Ethics Commissioner's findings;
 - (d) copies of any documents relied on by the Ethics Commissioner in reaching their conclusion;
 - (e) details in respect of the receipt of evidence from any vulnerable witness, including the reasons for the decision to classify them as such, any protective measures adopted, the scope of any information withheld, and why less protective measures were not sufficient.
 - (2) Despite subsection (1) (d), the Ethics Commissioner may direct that confidentiality be maintained over any documents or portions of documents that the Ethics Commissioner has directed should be withheld or redacted under section 5.3 (3).
 - (3) A final investigation report may include such findings as in the view of the Ethics Commissioner are or may be relevant in determining whether the subject of the investigation poses an unreasonable risk to community safety.
 - (4) Where an investigation has been partially completed in accordance with section 5.2 (6), upon completion of as much of the investigation as the Ethics Commissioner considers practicable they will prepare an interim report.
 - (5) Where an investigation discloses an immediate and compelling risk to public safety, the Ethics Commissioner may prepare an interim report.
 - (6) An interim report must include all of the following:

- (10) Upon completion of any report under this section, the Ethics Commissioner must provide a copy of the report to the ʻāwāhih Council, the subject of the investigation, the Executive Director, and the Law Clerk.
